

Journey to the countryside and nature of Japan

Green Tourism

–Enjoy Japanese rural areas–

Introducing the recommended areas

“Green Tourism” is a trip to feel local nature, culture, and life by interacting with local residents in forestry and fisheries. Visitors can enjoy green tourism in every region of Japan. We host the experience programs to feel nature, culture, and life in Japan at near distance from the big cities. Foreign visitors may continually participate in the programs as a day trip during a short stay in Japan. They may also leisurely stay at farm houses and inns, and experience forestry and fisheries in Japan by interacting with local residents.

The experience programs in the day trip plan are, for example, enjoying local dishes in the region, picking vegetables and fruits, and learning traditional culture in the region. In the stay plan, visitors enjoy local dishes with local residents and join festival in the region during staying overnight at farm houses and inns.

The regions listed in this booklet are available for accepting visitors from overseas. There also have the regions with good reputation in hosting educational tour from overseas. So, please enjoy forestry and fisheries in Japan by interacting with local residents.

<Introduction>

The small island which appears on the west of Japan is “Iki.” Many historical inheritances and rich nature still remain in this island that prospered as the relay point between East Asia and Japan through the ages. There is one of the government-designated digs at ruin of Yayoi period which has only three places in Japan—“Haru-no-tsuji Ruins.” “Ikikoku Museum,” opened March, 2010, collects and exhibits precious archaeological finds and documentations found in Haru-no-tsuji Ruins; some of exhibitions can be touched, feel the history of Iki and relation between Japan and Asia.

There is also domestic brand of black cattle “Iki Cow” fed by mineral rich grass and comparable to worldly famous liquor “Iki Barley Shouchu.” Those are special articles that the rich environment of Iki produced.

Iki provides “Experience Program” harnessed its merit of materials and culture. One of the programs is “Ishu Tofu Making,” enjoys and learns food culture with ants in Iki. Contact with residents is one of the tourist resources which supports the popularity of Iki. Shall we spend the time with people in Iki? That will surely present unforgettable memory for you.

<Introduction>

Located at the northwest part of Kagoshima prefecture, Izumi is blessed with warm temperature rich water and forest, and natural environment of sea and mountain. This city is also known as a global wintering spot that over 10 thousand of cranes come flying. Izumi Fumoto Old Samurai Residences, which resides the biggest outer castle of Satsuma domain in Edo period, is “town of crane and history,” and show the sign of old days.

We specialize acceptance of farm village experience in educational trip. Since Izumi is conveniently located within 30 minutes from Izumi station of Kyushu Shinkansen to each farm house, many students from home and overseas favorably visit here. Especially we have a good reputation among overseas educational travelers in experiencing of actual life at nature rich pastoral lands, tea ceremony at old samurai residence, and Japanese summer kimono while staying at farm house.
